YOU.

The theme this year is YOU – whatever your students want to be is up to them – with your guidance and support they can design a future that makes them feel like they belong – wherever, however, doing what they dream of.

Let's get them confident to claim the person they want to be.

A film about HOPE, managing stress and some new resources!

Our HOPE film featuring motivational speaker Kamal Hyman and mental health expert and author Dr Radha Modgil has been complimented with some brilliant new resources created by our NCW Board Member Farheen Khan.

With #NCW2022 fast approaching I wanted to draw your attention to a new assembly that National Careers Week has put together based around the Hope film that was released last year.

It introduces students to the concepts around careers education, what it's for and what it consists of, making use of the CDI framework.

You can edit the PowerPoint to adapt it to your school and there are slide notes which include links to websites that can be shared with students, teachers or parents.

The theme for NCW2022, is YOU, so the assemblies encourages students to take the initiative, and take ownership of their career journey. There are slides suitable for KS3 and KS4 students.

Careers in Racing

It's a BIG Year for our partners Careers in Racing – they've been promoting careers in the horseracing industry for 15 years now and are partnering with us again in 2022.

To have a look at their celebration film and see what they've been doing to raise opportunities and awareness of the industry here:

The Civil Service

The Civil Service supports the government across the UK to deliver policy and initiatives to support society. There are a broad range of apprenticeships, all of which are advertised on Civil Service Jobs, and applications are accepted from anyone aged 16 or older who has the right to work in the UK. The current Civil Service has an apprenticeships strategy target to ensure 2.3% of their workforce are apprentices, a plan which is designed to support increased social mobility and equality of opportunity.

The Civil Service apprenticeship commitment strives to embed best practice around apprentices through sharing professional insights with colleagues throughout the public sector, and to use their apprenticeship goals to support the wider agendas of Places for Growth, Civil Service for Everyone and Levelling-Up.

The varieties of Civil Service apprenticeship depends on where within the Civil Service it is located, and there are opportunities across all the Civil Service functions, with particular strengths in Operational Delivery, Finance and Tax, Human Resources, and Digital, Data and Technology.

Within England, there were 7,841 new apprenticeship starts in 2020/21 and 17,304 apprentices on a programme at the end of the same financial year. This represents 2.2% of the current Civil Service headcount in England, a figure that has increased from 1.3% in 2017/18, showing our progress towards our statutory target. In the 2022 - 2025 Strategy the scope and variety of apprenticeships will be increased across the UK – building on the current geographic distribution throughout England, with fewer than 1-in-5 based in London and over a third located in the North of England.

Nikki Hanmer, who is undertaking an HMRC Level 4 policy apprenticeship, joining the Civil Service was a dramatic change from her previous career in retail and marketing. With a nine-year old daughter to look after, Nikki had always found it difficult to devote the time needed for her own development. Completing a Civil Service apprenticeship gave her the opportunity to grow her skills, alongside a work/life balance which allows her take care of her family. Apprenticeships are not simply an alternative route for school-leavers, but a valuable development pathway for people of all ages, and allows career progression from many previous backgrounds - 65% of apprentices who started between 2016 and 2021 came from outside the Civil Service.

Please visit the Civil Service Jobs page for all up to date information.

The Careers and Enterprise Company

THE CAREERS & ENTERPRISE COMPANY

Our partners the Careers and Enterprise Company, work with schools, colleges and employers to help every young person find their best next step. The role of the Careers Leader is one of the most important roles in education; supporting colleagues, SLT and governors to embed careers across schools, special schools and colleges. The CEC provides resources, support and training to help ensure you can provide students with the knowledge, skills and understanding needed for the future. Including real world learning, knowledge, inspiration and advice gained through multiple employer and workplace engagements, exposure to further and higher education, as well as through the curriculum and in one-to-one personal guidance.

Their training courses help Careers Leaders understand their role and develop the skills required to strategically embed a careers programme in their school or college. All Careers Leaders working in state-funded secondary schools and colleges, including SEND and AP, are eligible to apply for a fully funded training place.

“In what has been the toughest year for me since I started teaching twenty years ago, the Careers Leader training is really keeping me going. The training is helping me to see parallels and connections to personal development and mental health approaches and work within school. I have particularly valued learning more about the CDI Careers Framework and how a progressive careers programme can drive positive outcomes for students”

- Careers Leader

Have a look around their Resource Directory which provides quality assured resources to help meet the Gatsby Benchmarks and deliver high quality careers provision for your young people. Resources are available for all schools and colleges including primary, secondary, SEND and AP/PRU. Visit the Resource Directory to find out more and to access key resources like the Impact Evaluation Toolkit and the current Ahead of the Game campaign.

The High Performance Podcast

THE HIGH PERFORMANCE PODCAST

We're having to pinch ourselves at NCW headquarters - we can't quite believe we have secured a partnership with the High Performance Podcast – a hugely influential look at people in the public eye who have made momentous success, life-changing decisions and overcome some incredible challenges, sometimes thrust upon them and sometimes as a result of mistakes they've made themselves.

Created by BBC presenter and author Jake Humphreys and psychologist and author 'Liquid Thinker' Professor Damian Hughes, the HPP has now recorded more than 100 episodes and features such legendary guests as Mark Cavendish, Fern Cotton, Bear Grylls, Mary Portas, Tim Peake, Steph Houghton and Tyrone Mings. NCW has access to hundreds of video clips, a tailored introduction for your students from Jake and Damian and a High Performance Assembly.

You can get access to all the brilliant resources here:
